KEY Functional Assessments Network Course Description

KEY Functional Capacity Assessments    3 Days    CEU = 2.4 (24 contact hours)

This three-day Triad Training teaches participants how to administer the KEY Family of Assessments, including Whole Body return to work Assessments, Upper Extremity Assessments, prior-to-hire Job Placement Assessments, Functional Review Assessments, healthy worker Audit Assessments and Alpha Assessments for early rehab intervention. Triad Training is an audit learning principle supporting highly interactive small groups that learn by doing and critiquing each other after study and lecture. The practice-practice-practice atmosphere is casual but intense, with each person working the techniques and methodology of the KEY Method of Functional Capacity Assessments. This course emphasizes the background, technology and methodology for administering functional capacity assessments for the injured and uninjured population. Working in small groups, trainees rotate through the roles of the Assessment Specialist, the Client and a Coach, practicing and being graded with examples from the real world of Assessments. In that it is a certifying process, with partner trainees assisting and critiquing each other as the training progresses, each trainee integrates the complexity of the client /assessment relationship and is able to administer the KEY Assessment upon completion of the three-day course. KEY trains not only Physical Therapists and Occupational Therapists, but also Certified Athletic Trainers, Kinesiologists, Exercise Physiologists, Physical Therapist Assistants and Certified Occupational Therapist Assistants. This allows the clinic to make better economic choices with their staff.
